Write a book review about a favourite book.

You must include key genre features of a review:

- Title/headings/subheadings, often with a by-line that may include a short summary of the review.
- Use of quotations from the book being reviewed.
- A clear structure: often linear with an introduction, development and summary.
- An outline of the plot.
- Intertextual (i.e. of a novel) references, for example links to other works by the same author/writer and how this piece being reviewed might relate to them.
- Biographical information about the writer/author, sometimes as background to their view and/or the work being reviewed.
- Quotations from other writers or other reviews on which to develop the argument or to support the points you have made.
- Use of language and literary features that will engage the audience, e.g. humour, narrative elements, etc.
- Other rhetorical features to engage the audience, such as a sarcastic tone, rhetorical questions.
